

Maker Afternoon at CSIR

The CSIR through the Data Science for Impact and Decision Enhancement (DSIDE) have established a Vacation Work program that takes in students from across South African universities to train and build Data Science oriented solutions.

These students used variety data visualization tools to explore and give meaning with data and projects presented to them. Any tech solution have a user/customer, it's important to make sure that what we are building speaks and makes sense to the intended target(s).

The Geekulcha Maker Library Network was invited to host a Maker Afternoon for the students in efforts to spark more momentum and creativity in visualizing data for 54 students on the program.
